The Piedmont East Bay Children's Choir Winter Concert Celebrates Music from Film and Contemporary Artists

Oakland, CA., January 9, 2015—Piedmont East Bay Children's Choir (PEBCC), one of the most in-demand children's choirs in the East Bay, presents its popular Winter Concert, celebrating music from popular films and works by contemporary composers.

Hear Leonard Cohen's beloved song, Hallelujah, and more selections from films like Frozen in the PEBCC's highly anticipated mid-year concert. See and hear a cross-section of the Choir, with performances from a variety of age groups. Young singers from the Training Department will show off their fall progress, singing classical and contemporary songs. More experienced singers from the Performing Department will perform brand new works by Stacy Garrop and Sue Bohlin; and all groups will join together for an inspiring choral finale. This wintry show should not be missed!

The Winter Concert is one the best showcases of PEBCC's award winning ensembles. Registration is now open and classes begin in February. If your boy or girl loves to sing, come and hear the Winter Concert on Saturday, January 24, 2015, and contact us to audition for the spring semester. Our weekly rehearsals are also open to prospective choristers to get a sense of the process.
